Summary of findings

Overall summary

Corbett House Nursing Home is a care home registered to support up to 35 people requiring general nursing care some of whom live with dementia and have physical disabilities. At the time of the inspection, 24 people were living there.

We found the following examples of good practice.

- The provider had identified that when greeting visitors at the front door it was not possible to maintain a safe social distance, so an alternative entrance was being used.
- The provider had utilised an external building for visitors to wash their hands and put on their personal protective equipment (PPE) prior to entering the main building.
- The provider had a dedicated room to enable them to isolate people should this be required. No new admissions were accepted, should this room be occupied.

Further information is in the detailed findings below.

Detailed findings

Background to this inspection

We carried out this inspection under Section 60 of the Health and Social Care Act 2008 as part of our regulatory functions. This inspection was planned to check whether the provider is meeting the legal requirements and regulations associated with the Health and Social Care Act 2008.

This was a targeted inspection looking at the infection control and prevention measures the provider has in place. As part of CQC's response to the coronavirus pandemic we are conducting a thematic review of infection control and prevention measures in care homes.

This inspection took place on 12 August 2020 and was announced. The service was selected to take part in this thematic review which is seeking to identify examples of good practice in infection prevention and control.
