Summary of findings

Overall summary

Marland Court is a residential care home which can provide personal care to 24 people. At the time of the inspection there were 19 people living in the home.

We found the following examples of good practice.

National guidance was followed on the use of personal protective equipment (PPE). Where concerns were raised the registered manager dealt with them promptly. There were supplies of PPE readily available to staff and visitors. Regular COVID-19 testing was taking place.

Staff had received training in handwashing, Infection Prevention and Control (IPC) and use of PPE. There were procedures and risk assessments to manage and minimise the risks COVID-19 presented to people who used the service, staff and visitors.

The systems in place allowed people to be admitted to the home safely. Government guidance on care home visiting, in place at the time of the inspection, was being followed.

The home was clean and uncluttered. Communal areas had been reorganised to promote social distancing.

Detailed findings

Background to this inspection

We carried out this inspection under Section 60 of the Health and Social Care Act 2008 as part of our regulatory functions. This inspection was planned to check whether the provider is meeting the legal requirements and regulations associated with the Health and Social Care Act 2008.

As part of CQC's response to care homes with outbreaks of COVID-19, we are conducting reviews to ensure that the Infection Prevention and Control (IPC) practice is safe and that services are compliant with IPC measures. We also received information of concern about infection prevention and control measures at this service. This was a targeted inspection looking at the IPC practices the provider has in place. We also asked the provider about any staffing pressures the service was experiencing and whether this was having an impact on the service.

This inspection took place on 26 January 2022 and was unannounced.
