Summary of findings

Overall summary

Harborne House is a residential care home providing personal care and support for up to four people under the age of 65 and may have a learning disability. At the time of the inspection there were four people living in the home.

We found the following examples of good practice.

- All visitors undertook a risk assessment prior to arriving at the home. This helped the registered manager to make an informed decision as to whether the visit was necessary.
- Risk assessments to mitigate cross infection had been completed to enable people to safely access activities within the community.
- Staff changed their clothing upon starting and finishing work, to reduce the risk of cross infection.
- Specific training around infection prevention and control for Covid-19 had been given to staff to promote awareness and reduce anxieties.

Further information is in the detailed findings below.

Detailed findings

Background to this inspection

We carried out this inspection under Section 60 of the Health and Social Care Act 2008 as part of our regulatory functions. This inspection was planned to check whether the provider is meeting the legal requirements and regulations associated with the Health and Social Care Act 2008.

This was a targeted inspection looking at the infection control and prevention measures the provider has in place. As part of CQC's response to the coronavirus pandemic we are conducting a thematic review of infection control and prevention measures in care homes.

This inspection took place on 16 October 2020 and was announced. The service was selected to take part in this thematic review which is seeking to identify examples of good practice in infection prevention and control.

Is the service safe?
