Summary of findings

Overall summary

Elizabeth Fleming Care Home is a residential home providing nursing and personal care mainly to older people and people living with a dementia. It can accommodate up to 36 people in one purpose-built building. There were 20 people using the service when we visited.

We found the following examples of good practice.

- Systems were in place to allow safe visiting, including screening visitors to reduce any potential infection risk, before they entered the building.
- Social distancing was encouraged, and changes had been made to communal areas to promote this.
- Staff wore personal protective equipment (PPE). Training in infection prevention and control measures and the appropriate use of PPE had taken place.
- Systems were in place to admit people safely into the home.
- A regular programme of Covid-19 testing was in place for people and the staff team.

Further information is in the detailed findings below.

Detailed findings

Background to this inspection

We carried out this inspection under Section 60 of the Health and Social Care Act 2008 as part of our regulatory functions. This inspection was planned to check whether the provider is meeting the legal requirements and regulations associated with the Health and Social Care Act 2008.

As part of CQC's response to care homes with outbreaks of coronavirus, we are conducting reviews to ensure that the Infection Prevention and Control practice was safe and the service was compliant with IPC measures. This was a targeted inspection looking at the IPC practices the provider has in place.

This inspection took place on 30 November 2020 and was announced with very short notice.
