Summary of findings

Overall summary

Ashville House is a small care home for people with mental health needs. Three people were living at Ashville House at the time of our inspection.

We found the following examples of good practice.

People were supported in a creative way to stay active when national restrictions prevented access to their normal range of activities.

People were supported to maintain their relationships with friends and family where they wished to do so. One person had re-established contact with a family member during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Staff knew and followed national guidance around infection prevention and control which ensured people were safe from the risks of infection.

Detailed findings

Background to this inspection

We carried out this inspection under Section 60 of the Health and Social Care Act 2008 as part of our regulatory functions. This inspection was planned to check whether the provider is meeting the legal requirements and regulations associated with the Health and Social Care Act 2008.

As part of CQC's response to the COVID-19 pandemic we are looking at how services manage infection control and visiting arrangements. This was a targeted inspection looking at the infection prevention and control measures the provider had in place. We also asked the provider about any staffing pressures the service was experiencing and whether this was having an impact on the service.

This inspection took place on 14 January 2022 and was announced. We gave the service 24 hours notice of the inspection.
