Summary of findings

Overall summary

Albert Lodge is a residential care home providing personal care to four people at the time of the inspection. The home can accommodate up to six people in one building. They predominantly support people living with a learning disability and mental health illness.

We found the following examples of good practice.

The registered manager had followed current guidance in relation to infection prevention and control. The home was open to visitors although most people chose to go out to meet their families and friends.

The registered manager had detailed care plans and risk assessments associated with COVID-19, they had consulted with people and where relevant their families when implementing them.

Robust measures in line with government guidance were in place for visitors who had easy access to hand gel throughout the home.

The registered manager and staff communicated regularly with family of people living in the home. They also had effective relationships with other professionals such as GP surgeries for the benefit of people living in the home.

The home was clean and tidy, staff followed cleaning rotas. Care staff were documenting cleaning being carried out within the home and this were checked daily by the management team to ensure it was carried out effectively. All staff ensured regular disinfection of frequently touched surfaces of the home for example, light switches and door handles.

The home was well stocked with PPE supplies. This was located at designated points throughout the home to ensure staff had access to required PPE. We observed staff donning, doffing and wearing PPE appropriately.

Staff had worked hard to support people's wellbeing during the pandemic by providing in-house activities and spent time with people to help ensure they did not feel isolated. The provider and registered manager supported staff with their well-being during the pandemic with supervision and informal chats.

There was an infection control policy and contingency plan in place that had been updated as guidance had changed.

Detailed findings

Background to this inspection

We carried out this inspection under Section 60 of the Health and Social Care Act 2008 as part of our regulatory functions. This inspection was planned to check whether the provider is meeting the legal requirements and regulations associated with the Health and Social Care Act 2008.

As part of CQC's response to the COVID-19 pandemic we are looking at how services manage infection control and visiting arrangements. This was a targeted inspection looking at the infection prevention and control measures the provider had in place. We also asked the provider about any staffing pressures the service was experiencing and whether this was having an impact on the service.

This inspection took place on 2 February 2022 and was announced. We gave the service 48 hours' notice of the inspection.

Visiting in care homes

Visits took place in line with government guidelines. Visitors were welcomed into the service while following a structured entry, temperatures were tested, and visitors were asked a series of questions to ascertain visitors' movements and COVID-19 status. LFD checks were also undertaken. People were also supported to visit their friends and families outside of the service. This meant people had a choice of where to meet their friends and families which had a positive impact on their wellbeing.

From 11 November 2021 registered persons must make sure all care home workers and other professionals visiting the service are fully vaccinated against COVID-19, unless they have an exemption or there is an emergency.

- The service was meeting the requirement to ensure non-exempt staff and visiting professionals were vaccinated against COVID-19.
