Summary of findings

Overall summary

Mediline Supported Living Bradgate is a care home providing accommodation and personal care for up to four adults with a learning disability and other complex needs. At the time of our inspection, there were four people living at Bradgate Drive.

We found the following examples of good practice.

Procedures were in place to reduce the risk of infection entering the home, for example, a log of all visitors, temperature monitoring and lateral flow tests. In the foyer of the small care home visitors had access to personal protective equipment (PPE), hand sanitiser and antibacterial wipes. There were safe and effective arrangements for visitors to the home, although contact from relatives was mainly via the telephone and post.

The home had mechanisms in place to communicate to people about the pandemic, the use of PPE and why safety measures were necessary. Staff used pictures and social stories to inform and give reassurance. People were also encouraged to follow good hand hygiene practice.

People preferred not to leave the home due to the pandemic. The service had worked hard to develop and encourage use of the large rear garden, especially during the warmer weather. Additional seating had been purchased so that social distancing could be adhered to. The service had implemented garden visits when these were allowed, to enable people to maintain relationships that were important to them.

Staff had received additional training on infection control, donning and doffing PPE and hand hygiene. The manager regularly reminded staff of the importance of good infection control practice, including the correct donning and doffing procedures for PPE, to prevent complacency.

The staff followed enhanced cleaning regimes, including deep cleans. There were cleaning procedures and recording systems in place for audit purposes. These helped staff maintain a high standard of cleanliness and hygiene in the care home.

The registered manager had set up a COVID-19 file. This contained all the relevant government guidance, information and company processes introduced during the pandemic. This could be easily accessed by staff in the event of the manager's absence.

As this was a small care home no admissions had taken place during the pandemic.

Visiting health professionals did not visit communal areas but carried out necessary clinical care in people's bedrooms.
