Summary of findings

Overall summary

Sundridge Court Nursing Home provides personal and nursing care for up to 30 people over the age of 65 in one adapted building. There were 25 people living at the service at the time of our inspection.

We found the following examples of good practice.

The provider maintained a stock of suitable personal protective equipment (PPE) for staff to use whilst working at the home. Staff followed national guidelines when using PPE to help minimise the risk of the spread of infection, including COVID-19.

The home had procedures in place for any visitors, including visiting health and social care professionals, to follow when visiting the service. These included screening visitors for COVID-19, providing them with appropriate PPE, and following safe infection control practices.

People were safely admitted to the home, following current national guidelines relating to care home admissions during the pandemic. Staff received infection prevention and control training and demonstrated a good understanding of how to apply this whilst working.

People and staff were regularly tested for COVID-19. The registered manager understood the action to take to effectively manage a potential COVID-19 outbreak. The registered manager and provider carried out regular health and safety checks to ensure infection control risks were managed safely.

The provider had infection prevention and control policies in place which reflected current national guidelines.
