Summary of findings

Overall summary

Tudor House is registered to provide residential and nursing care for up to 30 older people who may be living with a physical disability or dementia. At the time of our inspection 27 people were using the service.

We found the following examples of good practice:

The service was hygienically clean. Cleaning schedules and regular cleaning helped make sure all areas of the service were cleaned to reduce the risk of people catching or spreading coronavirus.

Staff wore personal protective equipment (PPE) to help keep them and the people they supported safe.

Visits were organised in line with government guidance. A 'visitor's room' had been set up to enable people to meet with relatives and friends in a safe way.

The five questions we ask about services and what we found

Detailed findings

Background to this inspection

We carried out this inspection under Section 60 of the Health and Social Care Act 2008 as part of our regulatory functions. This inspection was planned to check whether the provider is meeting the legal requirements and regulations associated with the Health and Social Care Act 2008.

As part of the Care Quality Commission's response to the coronavirus pandemic we are looking at the preparedness of care homes in relation to infection prevention and control. This was a targeted inspection looking at the infection control and prevention measures the provider has in place.

This inspection took place on 11 February 2021 and was announced.

Is the service safe?
