Summary of findings

Overall summary

Maids Moreton Hall is a nursing and residential care home, providing accommodation, nursing and personal care for up to 60 people aged 65 and over. This includes people who are living with dementia, physical disabilities and/or sensory impairments. The home is one adapted building across two floors. At the time of our visit, the service was transitioning from one provider to another.

We found the following examples of good practice.

We observed the home was clean and hygienic. Staff completed enhanced cleaning of frequently touched surfaces, which helped to promote good infection control. We observed a member of the cleaning staff carrying out a deep clean of a person's bedroom.

The home had a suitable system in place to support relatives and friends to visit people living in the home during the COVID-19 pandemic. This included checking people's lateral flow test results and the wearing of personal protective equipment. A pod was set up in the grounds of the home to enable people to visit safely.

The provider had put measures in place to minimise the impact of workforce challenges related to the Covid-19 pandemic. The registered manager reported that workforce pressures did not impact on the quality of care people received.

There was a good supply of personal protective equipment (PPE) available. We observed staff wearing appropriate PPE in the correct way. Staff had received training and their competency had been assessed in the safe use of PPE.

Tests for COVID-19 were being carried out in line with government guidance, for both staff and people living in the home.

The five questions we ask about services and what we found

Maids Moreton Hall

Detailed findings

Background to this inspection

We carried out this inspection under Section 60 of the Health and Social Care Act 2008 as part of our regulatory functions. This inspection was planned to check whether the provider is meeting the legal requirements and regulations associated with the Health and Social Care Act 2008.

As part of CQC's response to the COVID-19 pandemic we are looking at how services manage infection control and visiting arrangements. This was a targeted inspection looking at the infection prevention and control measures the provider had in place. We also asked the provider about any staffing pressures the service was experiencing and whether this was having an impact on the service.

This inspection took place on 23 February 2022 and was announced. We gave the service 24 hours' notice of the inspection.

Our findings

Staffing

- The provider told us they had measures in place to mitigate the risks associated with COVID-19 related staff pressures

How well are people protected by the prevention and control of infection?

- We were assured that the provider was preventing visitors from catching and spreading infections.
- We were assured that the provider was meeting shielding and social distancing rules.
- We were assured that the provider was admitting people safely to the service.
- We were assured that the provider was using PPE effectively and safely.
- We were assured that the provider was accessing testing for people using the service and staff.
- We were assured that the provider was promoting safety through the layout and hygiene practices of the premises.
- We were assured that the provider was making sure infection outbreaks can be effectively prevented or managed.
- We were assured that the provider's infection prevention and control policy was up to date.

Visiting in care homes

The provider's approach to visiting was in line with government guidance at the time.

- From 11 November 2021 registered persons must make sure all care home workers and other professionals visiting the service are fully vaccinated against COVID-19, unless they have an exemption or there is an emergency.
- The Government has announced its intention to change the legal requirement for vaccination in care homes, but the service was meeting the current requirement to ensure non-exempt staff and visiting professionals were vaccinated against COVID-19.
