Summary of findings

Overall summary

Broomhills is a care home and it is registered to provide care and accommodation for up to 47 older people some of whom may be living with dementia and/or a physical disability and/or a sensory impairment. Although the service is registered to care for 47 people, the registered manager has reduced the number of rooms in use and there were 42 people living in the service during our inspection visit.

We found the following examples of good practice.

Weekly Infection, Prevention and Control (IPC) steering groups were held at the providers head office. Minutes and actions were disseminated to all of the services straight after highlighting any new requirements, for example changes to procedures.

The provider's IPC policies and procedures were up to date and they were audited regularly.

There was a clear procedure for staff and people in the home to be tested for COVID-19 and clear guidelines as to what action should be taken if a positive test was received.

The service provided tests for staff to keep at home for their use if they displayed any COVID-19 symptoms. This meant that they did not have to enter the service to be tested, thus reducing the risk of infection to staff and residents.

IPC procedures were clear and followed by staff. All staff were trained in safe IPC practices. During our visit we observed staff wearing appropriate PPE and the home had plentiful supplies.

People were supported to maintain contact with their relatives in a number of ways, including a visitor pod, window visits, technology and by telephone.
