Summary of findings

Overall summary

The Parklands Care Home is registered to provide accommodation and personal care for up to 40 older people, some of whom are living with dementia. There were 27 people living at the home on the day of our inspection.

We found the following examples of good practice.

The provider was facilitating safe visiting. The way visiting took place had been well thought out and the available space was well utilised to ensure it was safe for visitors to enter and exit the building.

There was ample supplies of PPE available throughout the home. We saw donning and doffing stations provided in frequently used areas.

The service had a number of visible signs in predominant areas so people were able to see what was expected in terms of infection control practices.

The service was accessing the government testing scheme which assisted them to identify and respond quickly to the possibility of an outbreak.

Detailed findings

Background to this inspection

We carried out this inspection under Section 60 of the Health and Social Care Act 2008 as part of our regulatory functions. This inspection was planned to check whether the provider is meeting the legal requirements and regulations associated with the Health and Social Care Act 2008.

As part of CQC's response to the COVID-19 pandemic we are looking at the preparedness of care homes in relation to infection prevention and control. This was a targeted inspection looking at the infection control and prevention measures the provider has in place.

This inspection took place on 26 May 2021 and was announced.
