Summary of findings

Overall summary

Ingleside Residential Care Home is a 'care home'. People in care homes receive accommodation and nursing or personal care as single package under one contractual agreement. The home is registered to accommodate up to 17 older people in one adapted building. Nursing care is not provided by staff in the home. This type of care is provided by the community nursing service. At the time of this inspection there were 15 people living in the home.

We found the following examples of good practice.

Measures were in place to prevent the spread of infection by all visitors to the service. Visitors were required to answer questions about their health to screen for Covid-19 symptoms and their temperature was taken on arrival. A conservatory was being used for window visits and a visitor pod was being built in the garden.

People were supported to understand the measures that were in place regarding infection prevention and control. This meant they were relaxed with the measures in place. Some people were enjoying each other's company whilst engaged in activities and others chose to spend their time away from the group.

People were supported to stay in touch with their loved ones in ways that were meaningful to them. Staff understood the impact the isolation could have on people and sought to support people's emotional wellbeing. Senior staff liaised with health professionals to reduce risks to people's mental health.

Staff were committed to keeping people safe. They had undertaken additional training and understood the importance of wearing appropriate personal protective equipment (PPE). There were enough stocks available including masks, gloves, aprons and hand sanitiser. Sanitisation and PPE stations were placed near where staff needed them. There were more dispensers on order to ensure PPE would be easily available outside rooms if people needed to isolate in an outbreak.

Additional cleaning measures were in place in line with good practice guidance. These measures included extra cleaning of touch points in the home and regular deep cleaning. The home was clean and work was underway to improve the facilities for staff getting changed when they arrived.

Infection prevention and control audits took place and action plans were developed to follow up on any required actions. Actions identified within quality assurance processes with the local authority were followed up and addressed.

Regular COVID testing was carried out at the service for both staff and people living there, and contingency plans were in place in the event of any outbreak of Covid-19 or other emergency.
