Summary of findings

Overall summary

The Garth Care Home with Nursing is a care home providing accommodation, nursing and personal care to a maximum of 34 people, some living with dementia. At the time of our visit 25 people lived at the home.

We found the following examples of good practice.

- Visitors to the home had their temperatures taken and a Covid-19 screening questionnaire was completed prior to entering the home. Personal protective equipment (PPE, face masks, gloves and hand sanitising gel) were available for visitors to use. There was clear information easily accessible on arrival to the home to ensure visitors followed guidance and procedures to ensure compliance with infection prevention control.
- People were supported to maintain contact with relatives and friends who were important to them through video, social media and telephone calls. The management team had maintained regular contact with relatives through emails, newsletters, social media and telephone calls to keep them informed about the wellbeing of their family member.
- Staff changed their clothing upon starting and finishing their shifts, to reduce the risk of cross infection. Arrangements were in place for staff to appropriately social distance during breaks.
- People were assessed for high temperatures at least twice daily and where symptomatic, were isolated and tested for Covid-19 as soon as possible.
- People who had tested positive for Covid-19 self-isolated in line with current guidance; whilst ensuring those people testing negative were kept separate as much as possible for the duration of the isolation period. Clinical waste and laundry were handled in line with government guidance.
