Summary of findings

Overall summary

Granville Court is residential care home providing accommodation, nursing and personal care to people with learning disabilities and/or autism. There are three separate bungalows on the site and a main building where the office is located. The service is registered for up to 20 people. 14 people were living at the service at the time of inspection.

We found the following examples of good practice.

Staff had been creative in supporting people with changes to reduce people's anxieties. For example, staff had created scrubs in line with people's likes and interests.

Staff felt well supported. Regular supervision and small team meetings were held to encourage staff to share any concerns in relation to COVID-19. Staff also had the opportunity to speak with one of the providers psychologists through drop-in sessions.

The provider had purchased a portacabin with separated changing areas. This allowed staff and visitors to change their clothes prior to entering the service.

National guidance was being followed to ensure staff and people living in the service were regularly tested for COVID-19. Where this was not appropriate risk assessments had been completed to mitigate any risk.

When people had to isolate, boxes had been prepared with items to support people with isolation. For example, DVDs and sensory items.

Regular communication had been promoted with relatives. The provider had updated their procedures in line with Government guidelines to allow for indoor visits. 'Practice visits' had been carried out to ensure these visits were supported in a safe way.

Detailed findings

Background to this inspection

We carried out this inspection under Section 60 of the Health and Social Care Act 2008 as part of our regulatory functions. This inspection was planned to check whether the provider is meeting the legal requirements and regulations associated with the Health and Social Care Act 2008.

As part of CQC's response to the coronavirus pandemic we are looking at the preparedness of care homes in relation to infection prevention and control. This was a targeted inspection looking at the infection control and prevention measures the provider has in place.

This inspection took place on 11 March 2021 and was announced.
