Summary of findings

Overall summary

Allenbrook is a residential care home providing personal and nursing care and accommodation for up to 36 people. The service supports predominately older people some of whom may also be living with dementia, and they can also accommodate younger adults. At the time of the inspection 29 people lived at the home.

We found the following examples of good practice.

Staff had access to an employee assistance programme to support their wellbeing.

Staff had access to personal protective equipment (PPE) and were observed to wear this correctly and in accordance with current government guidelines.

There was a clear process in place to monitor vaccination status and testing for staff and people at the service.

The provider had regular cleaning schedules in place to maintain hygiene in the home. The home was visibly clean and free of clutter.

Detailed findings

Background to this inspection

We carried out this inspection under Section 60 of the Health and Social Care Act 2008 as part of our regulatory functions. This inspection was planned to check whether the provider is meeting the legal requirements and regulations associated with the Health and Social Care Act 2008.

As part of CQC's response to the COVID-19 pandemic we are looking at how services manage infection control and visiting arrangements. This was a targeted inspection looking at the infection prevention and control measures the provider had in place. We also asked the provider about any staffing pressures the service was experiencing and whether this was having an impact on the service.

This inspection took place on 10 February 2022 and was announced. We gave the service 24 hours' notice of the inspection.

Our findings

Staffing

- The provider told us they had measures in place to mitigate the risks associated with COVID-19 related staff pressures

How well are people protected by the prevention and control of infection?

- We were assured that the provider was preventing visitors from catching and spreading infections.
- We were assured that the provider was meeting shielding and social distancing rules.
- We were assured that the provider was admitting people safely to the service.
- We were assured that the provider was using PPE effectively and safely.
- We were assured that the provider was accessing testing for people using the service and staff.
- We were assured that the provider was promoting safety through the layout and hygiene practices of the premises.
- We were assured that the provider was making sure infection outbreaks can be effectively prevented or managed.
- We were assured that the provider's infection prevention and control policy was up to date.

Visiting in care homes

The provider was following the current government guidance and visiting was promoted. Systems were in place to support visiting through COVID-19 testing, recording of visitor's temperatures and providing PPE. Visitors were able to see their loved ones where it was most comfortable for the individual.

From 11 November 2021 registered persons must make sure all care home workers and other professionals visiting the service are fully vaccinated against COVID-19, unless they have an exemption or there is an emergency.

- The Government has announced its intention to change the legal requirement for vaccination in care homes. The provider was meeting the current requirement to ensure non-exempt staff were vaccinated against COVID-19.

Although the registered manager assured us the vaccination status of visiting professionals were checked, prior to them entering the home, they were unable to locate the folder containing the evidence of this during the inspection. A chart was provided to us following the inspection. The registered manager changed the system to record this information during the inspection from paper to an electronic system. We saw a poster on the front door making visiting professionals aware they would need to show their vaccination status before being allowed into the home.
