Summary of findings

Overall summary

Manor Park is a residential care home that was providing personal and nursing care to 59 people aged 65 and over at the time of the inspection. There are three separate units within the home divided into nursing care, residential care and care for people living with dementia.

We found the following examples of good practice.

At the entrance of the home, detailed information was displayed to inform visitors about the infection control procedures to be followed prior to admittance to the home. Personal protective equipment (PPE) was also supplied and available for visitors use.

We observed the home to be clean and tidy, with domestic staff carrying out their duties throughout our inspection. There were enough staff to care for people safely. Plentiful supplies of PPE was available throughout the home. We saw staff wore PPE appropriately at all times during our visit. Hand sanitiser was placed throughout the building and we observed staff using them when appropriate.

Staff providing care and cleaning were designated to the unit and would not move between units to reduce the risk of transmission. Tests for COVID-19 were carried out three times a week for staff. Local policies had been developed to ensure staff understood how to work and deliver care safely. Staff had been trained in control of infection, use of PPE and to identify when to escalate concerns around people's health and well-being.

Risk assessments were completed where certain groups of people may be at higher risk of contracting the virus. An appropriate infection control procedure was in place and regular infection control audits were undertaken to ensure standards were maintained.

We carried out this inspection under Section 60 of the Health and Social Care Act 2008 as part of our regulatory functions. This inspection was planned to check whether the provider is meeting the legal requirements and regulations associated with the Health and Social Care Act 2008.

As part of CQC's response to care homes with outbreaks of COVID-19, we are conducting reviews to ensure that the Infection Prevention and Control practice was safe and the service was compliant with IPC measures. This was a targeted inspection looking at the IPC practices the provider has in place.

This inspection took place on 15 April 2021 and was announced.
