Date of inspection visit: 9 June 2020
Date of publication: 13/07/2020

This report describes our judgement of the quality of care at this service. It is based on a combination of what we found when we inspected, information from our ongoing monitoring of data about services and information given to us from the provider, patients, the public and other organisations.

Overall summary

We carried out a focused inspection of Jarvis Medical Practice on 9 June 2020. We announced the inspection the previous day.

We had previously inspected the practice on 1 March 2019 and the practice was given an overall rating of requires improvement with the following key question ratings:

Safe – requires improvement

Effective – requires improvement

Caring – good

Responsive – good

Well-led – requires improvement

All the population groups were rated requires improvement.

We would usually have carried out a full comprehensive inspection within 12 months of the previous report being published, which was on 23 April 2020. Ratings would have been reviewed at this time.

We have paused our routine inspections due to Covid-19, but our regulatory role and core purpose of keeping people safe has not changed.

We received information of concern about Jarvis Medical Practice. The risk to patients was formally assessed and it was determined that an inspection should be carried out. This was a focused inspection about specific areas of concern relating to patient safety.

As general practice has adapted its ways of working since Covid-19 began, and particularly since lockdown began on 23 March 2020, we looked at records from prior to and following this date.

We found that:

- The system to identify patients in urgent need of attention was not effective.

- Records were unclear so it was not possible to always determine what had taken place during a consultation. Conflicting information had been recorded for single consultations.
- Records were not always written contemporaneously and we saw evidence of records being amended.
- Blood tests required for patients taking certain medicines, or with certain conditions, did not routinely take place.
- It was not clear why some medicines had been prescribed, and side-effects were not always noted as being discussed.
- Examinations did not always take place for patients attending face to face appointments with physical symptoms.
- Patients at risk of diabetes were not always identified.
- Requests for home visits were not always actioned. We saw other examples of requests not being actioned for several days with no recorded explanation or assessment of urgency.
- The issues we identified during our focused inspection had not been identified by the partners.

As this was a focused inspection due to specific concerns raised, we have not awarded an overall rating or a rating for any key question.

Due to the seriousness of the issues we found relating to patient care and safety we issued a Notice of Decision to suspend the registration of Jarvis Medical Practice for a period of four months on 11 June 2020. The notice took immediate effect. There is a process where the action we have taken could be appealed. We shared our findings with NHS Oldham Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG). They took immediate steps to ensure patients had continuing access to a GP service.

Details of our findings and the evidence supporting our ratings are set out in the evidence table.
