Summary of findings

Overall summary

Garth House is a care home. People in care homes receive accommodation and nursing or personal care as a single package under one contractual agreement. CQC regulates both the premises and the care provided, and both were looked at during this inspection. The service provides accommodation and personal care for up to 42 older people, some who may also be living with dementia. On the day of our inspection 24 people were living at the service.

We found the following examples of good practice.

The provider had implemented measures to reduce the risk of infection. There was an up to date infection control policy in place and regular audits were carried out. Staff were observed wearing appropriate Personal Protective Equipment (PPE) and regular training was provided to staff.

The service was clean and hygienic and additional cleaning schedules had been implemented since the beginning of the pandemic, which included regular cleaning of high-touch areas.

The provider had acted to minimise risks to people who used the service and staff. There was a PPE station in the lobby area of the service where visitors were assisted to don and doff PPE, sanitise their hands and complete a health questionnaire before entering the building. When people were admitted to the service, they were supported to isolate in their rooms for a period of 14 days. PPE stations and disposal bins were placed around the service to support good IPC practice.

Staff had regular COVID-19 testing in line with Government guidance and staff were required to self-isolate if they displayed symptoms or tested positive. People who lived at Garth House also had access to regular testing. If people displayed symptoms or tested positive for COVID-19 they were supported to isolate in their rooms and barrier nursed.

Due to a recent outbreak of COVID-19 at the service, people's families were unable to visit. Some window visits had taken place and other contact was made through social media or telephone calls.

Management had good links with local health care professionals and sought advice and input from Public Health England in relation to any positive test results or outbreaks. Staff said they had been very well supported throughout the pandemic.

Further information is in the findings below.

Detailed findings

Background to this inspection

We carried out this inspection under Section 60 of the Health and Social Care Act 2008 as part of our regulatory functions. This inspection was planned to check whether the provider is meeting the legal requirements and regulations associated with the Health and Social Care Act 2008.

As part of CQC's response to care homes with outbreaks of coronavirus, we are conducting reviews to ensure that the Infection Prevention and Control (IPC) practice was safe and the service was compliant with IPC measures. This was a targeted inspection looking at the IPC practices the provider has in place.

This inspection took place on 24 February 2021 and was announced.
