Summary of findings

Overall summary

Downshaw Lodge is a care home providing personal and nursing care to 43 male adults with a range of needs arising from their physical and mental health. The service can support up to 45 people.

We found the following examples of good practice.

The home had policies and procedures to manage any risks associated with the COVID-19 pandemic. This included the management of risks for people who had tested positive for COVID-19.

There were enough stocks of personal protective equipment (PPE). We observed staff and management were using PPE correctly and there were procedures in place to support staff with its use.

The environment had been adapted to comply with guidance and ensure people and relatives were able to continue interacting safely.

The provider had implemented a regular programme of COVID-19 testing for people in the home, staff, and visitors. All visitors, including professionals, were subject to a range of screening procedures, including showing evidence of vaccination and a negative lateral flow test before entry into the home was allowed.

Staff had established good working relationships with relevant healthcare professionals and their support continued during the pandemic.

Workforce pressures were not currently having a detrimental impact on the delivery of the service.

Detailed findings

Background to this inspection

We carried out this inspection under Section 60 of the Health and Social Care Act 2008 as part of our regulatory functions. This inspection was planned to check whether the provider is meeting the legal requirements and regulations associated with the Health and Social Care Act 2008.

As part of CQC's response to care homes with outbreaks of COVID-19, we are conducting reviews to ensure that the Infection Prevention and Control (IPC) practice is safe and that services are compliant with IPC measures. This was a targeted inspection looking at the IPC practices the provider has in place. We also asked the provider about any staffing pressures the service was experiencing and whether this was having an impact on the service.

This inspection took place on 17 February 2022 and was announced. We gave the service two days' notice of the inspection.

Our findings

Staffing

- The provider told us they had measures in place to mitigate the risks associated with COVID-19 related staff pressures

How well are people protected by the prevention and control of infection?

- We were assured that the provider was preventing visitors from catching and spreading infections.
- We were assured that the provider was meeting shielding and social distancing rules.
- We were assured that the provider was admitting people safely to the service.
- We were assured that the provider was using PPE effectively and safely.
- We were assured that the provider was accessing testing for people using the service and staff.
- We were assured that the provider was promoting safety through the layout and hygiene practices of the premises.
- We were assured that the provider was making sure infection outbreaks can be effectively prevented or managed.
- We were assured that the provider's infection prevention and control policy was up to date.
- The provider was facilitating visits for people living in the home in accordance with the current guidance.

From 11 November 2021 registered persons must make sure all care home workers and other professionals visiting the service are fully vaccinated against COVID-19, unless they have an exemption or there is an emergency.

- The Government has announced its intention to change the legal requirement for vaccination in care homes, but the service was meeting the current requirement to ensure non-exempt staff and visiting professionals were vaccinated against COVID-19.
