Summary of findings

Overall summary

Abbey Grange Nursing Home is a residential care home that provides accommodation and nursing or personal care for adults, some of whom are living with dementia. The home can accommodate up to 74 people in one adapted building over four floors. At the time of our inspection there were 74 people living in the home.

We found the following examples of good practice.

The home had a robust system in place to support relatives and friends to visit people living in the home during the COVID-19 pandemic. Government guidance was being followed and the home had supported visits to recommence safely within the home. Visits were pre-booked to ensure they were staggered and the number of visitors in the home was manageable at all times. Visitors were required to complete a COVID-19 test prior to entering the home and wear personal protective equipment (PPE) during their visit.

Staff had received training about how to keep people safe from the risk of infection and how to use PPE correctly. The provider ensured there was enough PPE available for staff at all times. We observed staff wearing appropriate PPE.

Regular tests for COVID-19 were being carried out in line with government guidance, by both staff and people living in the home.

Appropriate checks were undertaken before people moved into the home, to reduce the risk of infection being introduced to other people living in the home. Staff obtained evidence that any person admitted to the service had recently tested negative for COVID-19, prior to their arrival. People also completed a further COVID-19 test on arrival at the home.

The premises were clean. There was a cleaning schedule in place and suitable cleaning products were used to control the spread of infection.

There were clear procedures in place to help ensure staff knew what action to take if they or a person living in the home displayed symptoms of COVID-19 or received a positive test result.
