Summary of findings

Overall summary

The Peele is a care home providing personal and nursing care to older and younger people and people living with dementia. The service is registered to support up to 108 people.

The Peele is a large adapted building consisting of separate households. At the time of the inspection, the home was undergoing major refurbishment work and the number of people living at The Peele had reduced to 21. The service had the capacity to operate as a designated setting.

We found the following examples of good practice.

The unit chosen as the designated setting, the Nightingale Unit, was on the ground floor and directly accessed from the foyer of the home. There was no contact with people living on the first and second floors of the home. A 'clean room' had been established for staff to enable enhanced levels of hygiene. This reduced the risk of the spread of infection.

The unit was clean and hygienic. The environment was spacious and social distancing was promoted in communal areas. The unit had a wrap-around outside space that people could access from the ground floor lounge area.

Stations were established at the entrance of all eight rooms, housing personal protective equipment. Staff had received initial donning and doffing training during the COVID-19 pandemic and refresher training had recently been delivered.

Robust systems were in place to track the vaccination and testing status of all permanent staff and those employed from an agency. The registered manager was supported by a strong staff team, including a deputy manager and a clinical lead. The service had three infection control champions who informed staff of infection control best practice.

We were assured that this service met good infection prevention and control and control guidelines as a designated care setting.
