Summary of findings

Overall summary

The Laurels Residential and Nursing Home provides nursing and personal care for up to 43 people aged 65 years and over. At the time of the inspection there were 34 people using the service.

We found the following examples of good practice:

- There was clear infection prevention signage and instructions around the home to explain what people should do to ensure safety.
- Communal areas such as an indoor visiting pod and garden areas were used creatively to support relatives' visits.
- There was a booking system in place to stagger visitors and visiting times. This minimised visitor numbers and provided time between visits for cleaning of the visiting pod.
- Arrangements were in place to ensure staff appropriately social distanced during breaks. Staff wore a fluid repellent surgical mask, eye protection, gloves and apron when delivering personal care to people.
- There was a COVID-19 testing scheme in place for all staff and people living at the home. The system also ensured that people had tested negative for COVID-19, from the hospital and the community, before they were admitted to the home.
- Clear masks were available in the home for staff or visitors to use when they spoke with people who had a hearing impairment and lip read to aid communication.
- The registered manager of the home worked closely with the cleaning staff to monitor that cleaning processes were in line with national COVID-19 guidance. Cleaning staff demonstrated a very good knowledge of the cleaning products they used and the importance of their role in keeping people safe.
- There were systems in place to support staff working at the home. The registered manager of the home ensured that they meet regularly with the night staff to update them on any changes and to monitor their wellbeing. Welfare checks to support staff who were shielding were also carried out.
