Summary of findings

Overall summary

Sunnyfield is a residential care home for up to 10 people living with learning disabilities. At the time of inspection there were eight people living across the three Sunnyfield houses.

We found the following examples of good practice.

- The premises were clean, hygienic and tidy. There was a daily routine of cleaning where each member of staff was given responsibility for cleaning.
- There was handwashing and hand sanitising points throughout the service which were used by staff and people who lived at the service.
- All staff were wearing face masks. Staff had a good understanding of personal protective equipment (PPE) and when it needed to be used.
- There was a thorough screening process for visitors where the temperature was taken, oxygen levels taken, and a screening questionnaire completed to check for any COVID symptoms.
- There were signs and updates throughout the service in an easy read format. These displayed information on safe handwashing routines and how to wear PPE correctly.

Further information is in the detailed findings below.

Detailed findings

Background to this inspection

We carried out this inspection under Section 60 of the Health and Social Care Act 2008 as part of our regulatory functions. This inspection was planned to check whether the provider is meeting the legal requirements and regulations associated with the Health and Social Care Act 2008.

As part of CQC's response to the coronavirus pandemic we are conducting a thematic review of infection control and prevention measures in care homes.

The service was selected to take part in this thematic review which is seeking to identify examples of good practice in infection prevention and control.

This inspection took place on 17 November 2020 and was announced.

Is the service safe?
