Summary of findings

Overall summary

Newnton House Residential Care Home is a 'care home'. Newnton House Residential Care Home provides care and support for up to nine people with mental health needs, many of whom have a forensic history and learning disabilities. The service aims to provide a short-term service for people before they are able to live more independently. At the time of our inspection there were nine men using the service.

We found the following examples of good practice.

- The provider had appropriate arrangements for visiting to help prevent the spread of infection. All visitors were required to book a time prior to visiting people. Visits were scheduled for no more than one hour to minimise the risk of infection. Visitors were supported to wear a face covering when visiting. Hand washing facilities, signage of infection control procedures and hand sanitizer stations were available near the entrance and throughout the care home.
- The provider had appropriate arrangements to test people and staff for COVID- 19 and was following government guidance on testing. This ensured that people and staff were tested for COVID- 19 in a consistent way in line with national guidance.
- The provider ensured that staff received appropriate training and support to help prevent the spread of infection. All staff had received training on infection control and the use of PPE. Staff were assigned to work at the one location to help minimise the risk of cross infection. Staff wellbeing was supported if they became unwell and when they returned to work.
- The provider ensured that people using the service could maintain links with family members and friends. People were supported to have visits from their relatives and friends in a designated area in the garden where social distancing was observed. Family members and friends who were unable to visit the home could stay in touch with people with phone and video messaging. The provider understood the communication needs of people.

Detailed findings

Background to this inspection

We carried out this inspection under Section 60 of the Health and Social Care Act 2008 as part of our regulatory functions. This inspection was planned to check whether the provider is meeting the legal requirements and regulations associated with the Health and Social Care Act 2008.

This was a targeted inspection looking at the infection control and prevention measures the provider has in place. As part of CQC's response to the coronavirus pandemic we are conducting a thematic review of infection control and prevention measures in care homes.

This inspection took place on 13 October 2020 and was announced. The service was invited to take part in this thematic review which is seeking to identify examples of good practice in infection prevention and control.
